We live in a technological century. In every home there is a TV and in many homes even more than one.

TV can be good for children in many ways. For example, there are lots of educational programmes on TV. Every kid can gain new knowledge watching it. They can learn to count, write and read. It saves a lot of parents' time and money.

Also TV is a great source of information about our world. If you want your child to be smart you should let him watch TV-news because they give good knowledge of economics, politics and other things broadcasted on child's programmes.

On the other hand, many children are getting addicted with TV and it can be the reason of some problems with the child's health. For example, watching TV can be harmful for eyes or it even can break our sleep cycle.

Also there are lots of inappropriate content for children on TV. There are lots of violence, murders, aggressive behaviour and distasteful programmes which can make psychic of a child unstable. Unstable

There are lots of programmes of TV for children and only parents can make the right selection based on the children's personality.
